

Passion for Science workshop in Lund, Sweden, August 30-31, 2018

The workshop 'Passion for Science' was hosted by Engineering Education LTH, Lund University, Lund, Sweden. In this workshop the early stage researchers from both Glycolmaging and Biocapture project participated. The aim was to give early stage researchers the opportunity to analyze and improve their oral presentation skills applicable for both scientific presentations and popular science. It was an interactive workshop in which focus was put on two presentations, selected and presented by two ESRs. After the workshop in Lund, a review meeting was held at the University of Malmö, Malmö, Sweden. During the meeting, which was attended by Glycolmaging members only, the progress, problems and future focus points were discussed. All of us agreed that this meeting was very productive. After the meeting, both Glycolmaging and Biocapture groups gathered together and enjoyed the 20th anniversary celebration of Malmö University at the center of Malmö. Making it a perfect ending for a productive and interesting meeting.
